

McKenzie's Ancient Egypt Adventure

by Abigail Gardiner

It all started a long time ago in ancient Egypt. There was a secret scientist living in one Pyramid. His lab was built inside of a Pyramid, so that's what makes it secret. Everyday, or every night, he goes to his lab and tries some experiments, but to try and get in there's a secret button that looks like the Pyramid, but it's a button so no one can see the button. So, everyday or night, the scientist goes to press the button and every time he presses the button, it lets him into his lab. And, one night the scientist created a new and improved magic ancient Egypt wand and the wand was called The Wand of Power and Love. So, the scientist went out one day and travelled to go camping and he took the wand to go with him. Then, once he got to his campsite he thought to go out somewhere and try the wand out. So, once he used it, he waved it around three times and then it started to make love hearts fall everywhere. Then, everywhere the love hearts touched, it made them pink with love hearts on the objects. But since there were no people around to try the wand out on, the Scientist just faced the wand in the air and then that started. Then, he found a pyramid to hide the wand in. So he got some building blocks and then one day he headed into the Pyramids. Then, once he got into the Pyramid he built a stand for all the potions that you can make up with, and then turn it into a wand. And then he told us the potions.

The potions were, Power, Love, Secret and Galaxy. So, he put them all of the potions that keep the wand running, including the love heart. The love heart went on a bigger step in the middle of the stand. Then, there were two other shelves to put the four more potions. Then he left to go back to his lab. 2055 years later a little girl, her name was McKenzie, McKenzie went out one day to ancient Egypt. She brought a map of the world with her. Once she got to the Pyramid past all the booby traps and obstacles, she finally got to the CPU room. Then, once she looked up ahead of her, there it was all the pieces to make the wand of Love and Power and she picked up all the pieces to try and build the wand. Once she built it, she had the wand of Love and Power. Then McKenzie travelled safely back home. Then she grew up to be a super hero.

THE END

